

The general trend for sanitation facilities can be seen in the scatter plot titled "All Countries" this figure shows how the average of the sanitation values across the world were gradually increasing till about the mid 2000s then began to decrease. When we look at the average values in figures representing the "Income Group" the low income countries have the lowest average, while the high income countries have the highest, and understandably the middle income countries values are between the high income and low income countries.
